Firefighters, community remember those lost on 18th anniversary of 9/11

Barbara and Bill Anderson offer a simple message 18 years after the Sept. 11, 2001, terrorist attacks. “It was terrible for everyone,” Barbara Anderson told a crowd of about 50 at a Wednesday morning memorial ceremony at North County Fire & EMS. “But we made it through and we are stronger for it.”

In 2001, the Andersons lived in Middleton, New Jersey — a community across the bay from lower Manhattan that lost 37 residents to the attacks. “The Twin Towers were part of our view,” she said. “Neighbors were helping any way they could.”

Fire Chief John Cermak echoed the Andersons’ statements. “As horrific as it was, it did make us stronger,” Cermak told the audience, outlining how the world has changed to include better training for emergency crews, a brighter spotlight on mental health in the public service sector and a healthy sense of patriotism. “We must never forget those who sacrificed their freedoms for us.”

Nearly 3,000 people were killed when terrorist-piloted planes slammed into the World Trade Center, the Pentagon and a field in Pennsylvania.

The September 11 memorial ceremony in Stanwood started with a procession of emergency vehicles on Highway 532 along a stoic row of 343 American flags — representing the firefighters who lost their lives in the World Trade Center towers.

City buys park land

Stanwood gives library OK to move

By PEGGY WENDEL
Staff Reporter

Stanwood City Council met Thursday, Sept. 12, to approve a long list including buying new park property, changing a library agreement, accepting state money for both a traffic analysis and housing assistance.

Heritage Park expands

The council approved the purchase of 11 acres on 276th Street from Josephine Caring Community for $682,900. The property is next to Heritage Park and will be incorporated into the park for added services.

Library building

At Stanwood Library Board’s request, the City Council amended the library agreement to remove a restriction that the library stay in the downtown (floodplain) area of Stanwood until 2023. This allows the library to plan for a new building in another location.

The city owns the current library building, at 9701 271st Street NW. The city provides utilities, property management and maintenance services to the tune of $12,000 per year. Sno-Isle Libraries covers the expenses of staff and running the library through a voter-approved city property tax.

City planning commissioners consider rezone requests

By PEGGY WENDEL
Staff Reporter

Stanwood planning commissioners met Monday, Sept. 9, to consider six applications that could go on next year’s docket for possible changes to the city’s 2020 Comprehensive Plan. Five are rezones to make overall zoning more consistent and one is to look at quality standards for building materials.

They voted to recommend that all six requests be included on the docket and in the Planning Commission’s 2020 work plan.

Community Planning Director Patricia Love said this was an early review to see if the issues merit further review in 2020. She described each request.

Requests

- Stromberg rezone: Owners would like to rezone 10.5 acres at 6721 Pioneer Highway, west of the fairgrounds. It lies in Snohomish

County adjacent to city limits. In the county, it’s zoned residential. Since it could someday be incorporated, the city has pre-zoned the property to come in as light industrial. Owners would like it pre-zoned as residential, same as the county zoning.

The property’s use is limited by wetlands, a pond and buffers to Church Creek, making it difficult for industrial development, Love said.

Caller complained at 11:20 p.m. of neighbors playing loud music on Sunset Drive.

AREA BRIEFLY

Fire chief to talk about levy lid lift

Fire Chief John Cermak, with North County Fire & EMS, is accepting invitations to speak with local organizations, associations, churches, school groups or other gatherings of people who would like to learn more about the levy lid lift proposal on the General Election ballot.

If the lid lift is approved, the fire levy would return to the original $1.50 per $1,000 of assessed property value, the same rate voters approved in 2008. The lid lift would last for six years and cost the average homeowner about $49 per year ($4.08 per month).

If approved by voters in the Stanwood area, Cermak said North County Regional Fire Authority would use the funding to hire up to six emergency personnel and purchase supporting apparatus and equipment to respond to calls.

Contact Chief Cermak at 425-789-8036 or jcermak@northcountyfireems.com to schedule a presentation or public meeting.

Officials lift local burn bans

By SC NEWS STAFF

With the recent rain, cooler temperatures and resulting increase in fuel moisture levels, several area burn bans were lifted last week.

Island County Sheriff's Office lifted the ban on outdoor burning at midnight Tuesday, Sept. 10. Snohomish County quickly followed suit, lifting the burn ban for unincorporated areas at 8 a.m. Thursday, Sept. 12.

Burning garbage or using burn barrels is illegal statewide and subject to fines that can exceed $1,000. Cities have their own burn restrictions and residents should check before starting a fire.

Permit requirements on other fires continue:

- Recreational fires, or campfires, less than 3 feet in diameter and 2 feet high do not require a permit. Water must be available.

- Residential yard debris and land-clearing burning require a permit where open burning is allowed.

- Residential fires less than 4 feet in diameter require a verbal permit on Camano; call 360-240-5526 and listen to the requirements, or call Northwest Clean Air Agency at 360-428-1617, ext. 4.

Island County Health Department issues all written burn permits; call 360-387-3443 ext. 228 for Camano Island. Visit island-countywa.gov, click on County Services, Permits & Licenses, for additional permit information.

For Snohomish County, call the Outdoor Burning Information Hotline at 425-388-3508 for updated information. Visit snohomish-countywa.gov, search for Outdoor Burning.

Department of Natural Resources property owners should call 360-856-3500 for burn permit information. For air quality issues, call the Northwest Clean Air Agency at 360-428-1617.

Tour Stanwood Camano historic sites this weekend

By SC NEWS STAFF

Experience history in a beautiful setting on Sept. 20-21, during the third annual Stanwood Camano Historic Sites Tour. The free, self-guided tour of 21 locations, includes historic buildings, schools, barns, cemeteries, churches and parks on Camano Island and in Stanwood, from noon to 4 p.m. Friday and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday.

Walking tours with a focus on historic buildings will start from the Floyd Norgaard Cultural Center, 27130 102nd Ave. NW in Stanwood, where visitors can view a new exhibit of Stanwood's history. A talk Friday night will recount the history of The Floyd — originally the Public Hall of Stanwood — built in 1902.

Most locations offer activities throughout the two-day event. From old movies at The Floyd and a Cemetery Search game to roller skating at the South Camano Grange or using a handheld egg beater at Cama Beach, all ages can find something of interest and entertainment on the tour.

Bill expands American Legion membership opportunities

By SC NEWS STAFF

Stanwood's American Legion Frank Hancock Post 92 has been a member of the local Stanwood-Camano community dating back for nearly a century, according to Post 92 Adjutant Christina Van Wagnen.

The American Legion nationwide celebrates its 100-year anniversary this year. It was chartered and approved by Congress in 1919. It is the largest nonpartisan, nonprofit veterans organization in our country, with posts in all of our states and territories, according to the Legion website.

"This year marks a new beginning," Van Wagnen said.

President Trump signed a bill July 30 that authorizes any service member who has served from Dec. 7, 1941, to a time later to be determined by the federal government, eligible to become an American Legion member, opening membership and related benefit options to millions of veterans.

"For anyone who has served in the U.S. Armed Forces, this is the chance to serve again," she said.

The Frank Hancock Post at 26921 88th Ave. NW, Stanwood, is open 1-9 p.m. Sunday through Thursday and 1-11 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

The Veterans Service Office is open 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday or call 360-629-8021.

Applications can be found in the lobby/vestibule or in the lounge; a copy of each veteran's DD-214 will be needed. To apply online, visit legion.org, click on Join; on Camano Island, call 425-220-5274.

Reusable water bottle push aims to cut waste

Reducing waste is a top focus of the Snohomish County Council. We have been working in multiple ways to reduce or eliminate waste in our county.

The first is in our annual county budget, where we strive to increase efficiency by stretching your tax dollars to ensure that you are getting the most “bang for your buck” in terms of county services. This is reflected in our past two county budgets, where we have worked to increase efficiency and reduce waste in order to avoid increases in general levy property taxes for local residents.

We also make a priority of reducing physical waste in Snohomish County. We are blessed to live in a place with such beautiful natural scenery, from the Puget Sound to the Cascade Mountains and everything in between. This is one of the biggest draws to Snohomish County and so it is important that we work to conserve it.

An initiative I have been working on over the last several months looks to increase access to our local businesses and encourage a healthy lifestyle while reducing the amount of plastic we discard. This effort is called Snohomish County Tap, a partnership between my office, Zero Waste Washington, the Snohomish Health District and TapApp.

The TapApp is an app that identifies businesses and other public locations that will refill a reusable water bottle at no charge. It can show users the locations closest to them that provide free water bottle refills.

The Snohomish County Tap partnership is bringing this effort to Snohomish County with branding and a large stakeholder group to spread the word and encourage more people to ditch plastic water bottles and adopt reusable water bottles instead.

On June 4, a large group of stakeholders from local chambers of commerce, business, local government, community groups and schools met to discuss this effort. We had presenters from Zero Waste Washington, the Snohomish Health District and Economic Alliance of Snohomish County talk about the benefits of a program like this.

The initiative to encourage reusable water bottles at local businesses and public places helps conserve our beautiful surroundings, encourages healthy living and provides more opportunities to access local businesses. We are working with our partners to provide water bottles with the Snohomish County Tap logo and decals to participating businesses and locations to spread the word and encourage reusable water bottle use.

I am encouraged by the support and enthusiasm we have seen so far. We are working on a kickoff event, which will include a community service component, to start the program and get the word out about our effort. More information about the launch will be available in the coming weeks.

It is always great to work with partners like those involved with Snohomish County Tap. When we can come together to do good work that can benefit everyone, improve public health and reduce waste, it is a win-win-win. I look forward to seeing this program move forward and to the benefits it can bring.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Crematory

Stanwood already has funeral services

Dear Editor,

I was surprised with the front page article this week, Resident appeals crematory decision, first paragraph; Stanwood resident Peggy Kitting, with support of others in the city, doesn’t want a crematory in downtown Stanwood.

I find that odd since downtown Stanwood already has cremation services across the street from the proposed location at Gilbertson Funeral Home & Cremation service.

Editor’s note: As SC News has reported, cremation services currently offered in Stanwood are conducted in Mount Vernon.

Invitation

Wording matters; U.S. is ours

Dear Editor,

When one receives an invitation, even by internet, one wishes to respond, but in the case of a recent invitation to attend a concert by the United States Marine Corps Band, there was only one option to respond. In spite of the good intentions that underlie the invitation, it left a sour taste in my mouth by the way it was written. As a subscriber to a daily newspaper, I was extended the gift of two “VIP” tickets to attend “His own” United States Marine Corps Band’s performance.

The invitation implies that this band is the property of someone identified as “his” and not attributed to the entity that belongs to the citizens and taxpayers of the United States of America. It is a branch of the United States Marine Corps and as such, an extension of the Department of Defense, which was created to serve the citizens of the United States. We, more rightly and collectively should be said, the owners and not someone such as the president of the United States.

From where does this appellation come from? By using this terminology, the sponsoring entity supports the claims of the president of the United States that this and other entities and agencies, are “his” and then by default, not ours.

Ominous are the implications for our government when media sides with this sentiment, thereby no longer remaining nonpartisan.

City staff expertise in development appreciated

Dear Editor,

I have been a builder and developer in the Stanwood and Camano area for over 35 years. Last night the City Council approved the final plat of Trailside subdivision for our company.

I want to express my sincere thanks to the city staff for their diligence and expertise in working with us to complete this project. We have developed other projects in Stanwood and this one went especially well. The staff and inspection department worked with us to overcome the usual challenges associated with development and were knowledgeable, decisive and efficient in the process.

We have built over 75 homes in town, Pioneer Hills, Candle Ridge and other lots and have always kept affordable and high quality housing in the forefront of our mission. These 14 homes will be soon be offered to the community as affordable, high quality and centrally located single-family residences designed to blend in with the Stanwood comprehensive plan. They are close to shopping, city services and have a walking trail to Heritage Park. Again, thank you, Stanwood and city staff for your help with this project and your friendly and cooperative expertise.

Election

Zeigen will be asset on school board

Dear Editor,

George Zeigen would be a great asset to our Stanwood School Board. He puts the success of the student first. He has the unique ability to see things through the eye of an educator, the perspective of the parent and eye of the student. He knows if you can’t understand the way the student sees things or listen to what they are telling you about their own situation or education, then you have done an injustice.

Until you have a child that requires special accommodations or understanding, you may not realize how important this ability is. Being able to bend, change, give in, work harder or put in extra time to find success for some of the more “difficult student” cases is key. And, George does all of that.

When our family had interactions with George, I felt heard and respected, even if it wasn’t what I was hoping to hear. And the same is true for each of our sons. He is a fact finder, respectful, compassionate but direct. Whether it be disciplinary, maneuvering through a difficult family situation or tragedy, or academic struggles, he made our family feel like he was putting our kids first.

He doesn’t just talk; he takes action, and he never forgets what a student needs to be successful. Just because a student left the middle school didn’t mean they dropped off his radar or that he felt his job was done.

George has followed our kids, specifically our youngest, who really needed it, well beyond middle school and took opportunities to acknowledge accomplishments. Clearly George is vested in the lifelong success of students.

George just gets it! Great educator. Overall great person. George would bring great value to the Stanwood School Board. The entire community would gain from him serving on it.

Celebrity Checker raises about $200 for youth literacy

Stanwood Mayor Leonard Kelley was the celebrity checker from 1-3 p.m. Sept. 7 at Grocery Outlet in Stanwood during the store's monthly Celebrity Checker promotion to raise funds to benefit the local Dolly Parton Imagination Library program. Store checker Mariah Brady assisted Kelley.

The literacy program provides an age-appropriate book each month, at no charge, to some 750 area children, birth to age 5.

The fundraiser made $165 from 5% of Mayor Kelly's till (minus tax) and $51 in cash donations to help the Stanwood Camano Rotary provide free books to preschool children in the Stanwood Camano School District, according to Rotary member Terry Greer.

Imagination Library was started by country singer Dolly Parton to honor her father who never learned to read. The Dollywood Foundation manages the nationwide program with local partners such as Rotary.

Greer, a retired Stanwood accountant, helped launch the local Rotary project in 2008 in memory of his first wife, Shelly Greer, who died in 2007.

The books and postage require money, however. In 2018, Greer estimated the books, about 9,000 for the year, cost more than $18,000. The club needs the community's help to raise about $12,000 of that cost each year.

The Celebrity Checker on Oct. 5 will be Island County Commissioner Janet St Clair. To offer support, contact Greer at Greer1009@gmail.com or 425-760-3278 or visit Stanwood-Rotary.org.

2 SHS students named National Merit semifinalists

National Merit Scholarship Corp. has announced Stanwood High School students Jeffrey Rahman and Cole Welch as semifinalists in the 65th annual National Merit Scholarship Program. They are among some 16,000 high school seniors competing for 7,600 National Merit Scholarships to be awarded next spring.

About 90% of semifinalists are expected to fulfill the requirements to advance to the finalist level. About half of the finalists will be notified in February that they have won a National Merit Scholarship and the Merit Scholar title.

SHS math teacher plans group trip to Iceland

Stanwood High School math teacher John Swanson is holding an informational meeting at 6 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 18, in classroom 16 on the Church Creek Campus about the upcoming STEM trip to Iceland for students and others to experience. This is a non-school activity.

More information about the trip, Icelandic Adventure, June 26-July 3, 2020, can be found online at swansonmath.com, click on STEM Trips. Parents, students and anyone interested are invited.

Swanson's 2019 trip took a group of students to Alaska to learn about biomes, the plant and animal life in them, and how they are chang-

Japanese students need a home for 3 days

Traci Hering with Compass USA still is looking this week for host families for Japanese automotive students. The boys will be in Stanwood for three days, Oct. 11-14, long enough for interested families to sample the experience of hosting foreign students.

Students need their own bed but can share a room. Anyone willing to sharing their home with one or two students can contact Hering at 360-

Thoughtful-sewing group seek participants

Snohomish County Clothing and Textiles Advisors will gather 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Friday, Sept. 20, at the Cedar Valley Grange, 20526 52nd St. W., Lynnwood, to sew backpacks for Cocoon House in Everett, which is dedicated to helping at-risk or homeless youth. The handy, lightweight bags can easily slip over a student's shoulders to carry personal possessions. Bring a sewing machine, regular sewing equipment and dark-colored construction thread. Kits will be provided. Bring a brown bag lunch, too. To inquire, contact Julie.sevald@wsu.edu.

Heaven's grocery store

Meditations do not necessarily reflect the opinion of Stanwood Camano News or its staff. We welcome submissions in 300 words or less. Messages should be inspirational and not aim at proselytizing. Send by email to community@scnews.com.

I was running down life's highway one day when I saw a sign that read Heaven's Grocery Store.

As I got closer, the door opened wide and I found myself standing inside.

Angels were standing everywhere. One handed me a basket and said, "My child, shop with care."

Everything I could ever need was in the grocery store, and if I couldn't carry it all, I could always come back for more.

First, I got some Patience. Love was in the same row.

Further down the aisle was Understanding; you need that everywhere you go.

I got a box or two of Wisdom, a bag or two of Faith.

I stopped to get some Strength and Courage to help me run this race.

By then, my basket was getting full, but I remembered I needed some Grace.

I didn't forget Salvation, as that was free. So, I tried to get enough to save both you and me.

Then I started up to the counter to pay my grocery bill as I thought I had everything to do the Master's will.

As I went up the aisle, I saw Prayer and I just had to put that in, because I knew when I stepped outside, I would run into Sin.

Peace and Joy were plentiful; they were last on the shelf. Then I said to the angel, "How much do I owe?"

He smiled and said, "My child, God paid your bill a long, long time ago!"

Crematory hearing set

An appeal hearing is set for 10 a.m., Friday, Oct. 25, regarding the city of Stanwood's decision to allow a crematory downtown in the Mainstreet Business I zone. Hearing Examiner John Galt will soon determine details of how the hearing will be conducted. The hearing is tentatively set to be held in the North County Regional Fire Station 99. Galt has contracted with Stanwood since around 2000 and has served many other cities, including Lynnwood, Monroe and Lake Forest Park.

City

■ FROM A1

The Sno-Isle Libraries' 2016-2025 Capital Facilities Plan states that the "Stanwood Library (building) is too small to meet existing and future community needs. Public comments collected for this plan indicate strong interest in a new, larger library."

The plan says additional space is needed for community events, meetings, quiet study areas, public computers, more technology and comfortable spots for reading.

Charles Pratt, manager of Stanwood Library, said that Sno-Isle has its eyes on several districts that don't meet current needs, including Stanwood Library, which is in the oldest building of the Snohomish County libraries.

When the library has its own building, the city would save that cost. Voters would need to approve a bond for a new building, Pratt said.

Traffic Analysis

Council approved a $10,000 scope of work agreement for RH2 Engineering to prepare a traffic analysis on SR 532 with the Department of Transportation footing the bill.

The city is working with WSDOT on a SR 532 Beautification and Gateway project to improve traffic flow and access issues. Combining two roundabouts with welcome signs would give Stanwood a sense of place and maintain adequate flow for expected traffic growth.

WSDOT was originally going to do this work but asked us to do it and provided funding, said Community Development Director Patricia Love.

This builds on the 2015 Transportation Plan to identify low-cost corridor improvements and possible roundabouts for easy access to the downtown area and the future Ovenell Park, Love said.

Housing help

In dealing with an affordable housing crisis, the state has offered to funnel extra tax dollars back to cities specifically to help people with housing. Stanwood council approved participation in this new program.

It's not a new tax. The state is offering part of the state's share of existing retail sales taxes to each jurisdiction in addition to their usual shares. Stanwood qualifies for a 0.0073% half share of its taxable retail sales which comes to about $12,725. The county will also receive a half share to pool and use for county-wide solutions.

Stanwood will use funds to support rental and utility assistance programs already conducted by the Community Resource Center of Stanwood Camano.

During Citizens Comments, Tim Schmitt said that a family was in dire straits when the man's union was on strike and the woman lost her job. They were able to get by and keep their house with two assistance payments of $200.

Berm is ready for bucks

Stanwood's 532 berm project is designed, permitted and is shovel-ready. Now it needs funding. Council approved a $974,000 public works assistance fund loan with Snohomish County. This is a 20-year, low interest loan with a 1.5% rate.

Funding will be available after the first of the year, so staff will advertise the project in November to start construction in spring 2020.

The berm will further protect downtown from flooding on the Stillaguamish River. The berm will have a bike path on top to tie into recreation plans as well.

Trailside lots ready for homes

The Trailside development plat has been constructed with 14 residential lots on 2.61 acres at the end of 96th Avenue NW, between the library and Heritage Park. Roads, curbs, gutters, sidewalks, drainage and utilities are in.

All the bonds are in place, said Love. Council approved recording the final plat and now Gapco can build the homes.

On call electrician

Council approved on-call contracts with Bonner Electrical Contracting, LLC and Dahl Electric, Inc. These two companies were chosen from seven that responded to a call for bids. The contract is limited to $5,000 per job and $50,000 per year.

From time to time, the city needs a licensed electrician to quickly remedy a problem. Without one on staff, the city needs an outside company on call.

Rezone

■ FROM A1

She walked the property with the owners and found it hummocky and carved by wetlands.

• Nord/Beckner rezone:

Owners would like to rezone 1.43 acres from light industrial to multifamily residential and build 28 senior housing units. The lot is on 272nd Street NW, between 90th and 92nd avenues, south of the school district bus garage.

Love said that it was an example of what the city has been studying, building multiple unit housing closer to business areas.

Commissioner Sid Roberts said, "Dick Nord has developed senior housing before. This is located where people could walk to downtown stores and restaurants. It's been on the market for years."

Commissioner Marcus Metz said that business in Stanwood has been high risk in general in the flood plain and the site had poor visibility.

• 271st Street rezone:

The city initiated a rezone of property along the north side of 271st Street between 92nd and 90th avenues. These lots are zoned light industrial but are currently used as commercial businesses: a chiropractic office,

Comprehensive Plan docket procedure

Each year during the month of August, the public can ask the city to consider changes to the city's comprehensive plan and development regulations. They fill out a docket application.

Staff evaluates the docket applications and makes recommendations. Next, the docket applications are reviewed by the Planning Commission and the Community Development Committee who also make recommendations. Finally, the City Council holds a public hearing, and then reviews and approves or rejects the proposed docket items.

Once an item is approved for the docket, it will go through the city's formal review process with committees, Planning Commission and City Council before possible approval.

bank, hair salon and newspaper office. The city would like to change the zoning to Mainstreet Business II to avoid industrial uses along "Main Street."

Love said the rezone would make the block more consistent with the rest of 271st Street.

Roberts said that with the small lots, it would be hard for anyone to use a lot as an industrial site.

• Wammack/Sather rezone:

Owners would like to add a mixed use overlay to two vacant parcels zoned general commercial to match the surrounding zoning within the Stanwood Village shopping area. One parcel is on 265th Street, south of Hagen Food. The other is just south of Ace Hardware. The mixed-use overlay allows a combination of commercial and residential. The building to the east has businesses on the ground floor and apartments above and another mixed-use building is under construction in the area.

• Wammack/Sibert rezone:

Owners would like to add a mixed use overlay to their parcel zoned general business. It's on the southwest corner of 265th Street and 72nd Avenue. It is surrounded by senior housing, a medical clinic, fast food restaurant and a home. Owner Scott Wammack, who was at the meeting, said the city wouldn't be losing commercial, but gaining multi-family, combining both worlds.

• Quality standards for development materials:

As president of Ridgeland Estates' homeowners association, Shoaleh Colombi, has had to address the many repairs needed in the development. She asks that the city establish quality standards for materials used in developments. She had said that the fencing and sign were made from low quality materials that didn't last long. Topsoil was removed during the construction, and now landscaping plants are dying. Community open space was not well thought out, she had said.

Love said the development has parking on one side of the road, which also has fire hydrants that people can't park near.

The city also is considering zoning-related issues.

• Buildable lands and population growth analysis: In preparation for 2050 growth projections and the buildable lands analysis required by the Growth Management Act, the city will evaluate land capacity, density and housing types.

• Permitted use and procedures: The city will update its code for permitted uses and permitting procedures, so that land uses are consistent with the intent of the zoning districts and the permitting process is efficient while ensuring public participation.

OBITUARIES

ALVIN BOYD ORSLAND
December 24, 1925 -
September 10, 2019

Alvin Orsland was born Dec. 24 in 1925. He grew up in Everett, Wash., and attended North Junior High. His favorite subjects were math and sports. He was good at both.

Al also had lots of outside activities during his younger years: he worked up in the mountains fighting fires and on the tugboats in the summer.

Later he attended Everett High School, graduating in 1944. He was a three sport student participating in football, basketball and baseball. Al was a true team player. In his senior year the Everett High School basketball team won the cross-state championship.

Al enlisted in the U.S. Marine Corps in June 1944, where he participated in the invasion of Iwo Jima, served in the occupation of mainland Japan and the Palau Islands. During his service years he earned a variety of honorable commendations, three with bronze stars. He was discharged in 1946.

Returning to his hometown Al enrolled at Everett Community College. School and the sports scene kept him busy.

Orsland entered the business world as owner of H & L Sporting Goods on Hewitt Avenue, later moving to Colby in the heart of Everett from 1948-1974. They sponsored and supported the Everett Orioles baseball team; he was co-chair of the Memorial Stadium Roof Club.

After that successful endeavor, he was owner of Orsland Sports Athletic Supplies from 1979-1993

Alvin married Patricia Mootz on March 20, 1948. They were blessed with two daughters, Gretchen and Ann and subsequently four grandchildren, Bryn, Courtney, Olivia and Hannah.

Al was a member of Prince of Peace Lutheran Church in Everett where he served as congregational president.

After moving to Stanwood, Wash., in 1969, he joined Our Saviour's Lutheran Church and became an active member from 1968 to the present date.

He served as congregational president, council member and Sunday school teacher for many years. Al was always actively involved in the community: six years on the Stanwood/Camano Foundation, seven years on the fair board, school levy chairman for two years and charter member of Stanwood Booster Club.

Al and Pat bought a summer cabin on Camano Island in 1962, eventually making Juniper Beach their permanent home. Al served on the Juniper Beach Co-op Association board for many years (where he was often referred to as the "mayor of Juniper Beach.")

A trip to the family farm in Orsland, Norway, was a highlight, where he got to visit with many long-lost cousins. Al and Pat made yearly trips to Mokihana on Kauai. They were serious travelers, visiting areas in Japan and islands in the south seas, traveling to much of the U.S. and Canada and many areas abroad.

Al's love of family, church, sports and school shined through his entire life. He often said he had a terrific childhood and his energy and dedication to family and community stemmed from that.

A memorial service will be on Friday, Sept. 27, at 11 a.m. at Our Saviour's Lutheran Church in Stanwood.

MILDRED WYRSCH
June 4, 1924 -
August 28, 2019

On Wednesday, August 28, Mildred Wyrsh, loving wife and mother of three, passed away at the age of 95.

"Millie" was born Mildred Doris Gustafson on June 4, 1924 at Snoqualmie Falls Hospital in Snoqualmie Falls, Wash.

Her parents, Lars Gustafson and Elizabeth Johnson, emigrated from Sweden and settled in Snoqualmie in 1921. She had two sisters (Alyce, Helen) and a brother (Theodore). Some of her favorite childhood memories were going to parties at the Moose Hall where she slept on the coats while everyone danced the night away. Her love of ice cream dated back to childhood, when the family would drive to North Bend for ice cream, eating it in the car and watching the traffic go by.

After graduating from Snoqualmie High School, she attended the Metropolitan Business College in Seattle and landed an office job at the Snoqualmie Falls Lumber Co. About this time, she started going out with George Wyrsh.

George was 10 years her senior, a divorcee and playing the field (Millie's words). George fell head over heels for her saying, "The best day of my life was when I met Millie." On their second date, he told her he loved her. Every day for three years, George wrote her "Dearest darling Millie" letters while he served in the U.S. Army during WWII.

George came home from the war in January 1946 and on February 16, 1946 they were married at the North Bend Community Church.

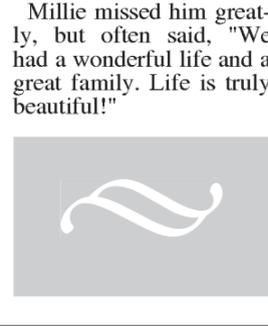

George and Millie had a very happy marriage and three children: George Jr. (1947), Carolyn (1949) and Mary Ellen (1952). George worked long days at their gas station while Mildred was busy raising kids and taking care of the house.

Tragedy struck in September 1959 when Millie took Mary Ellen for a drive to look at new homes. Coming back, they had a terrible car crash. Mary was killed instantly and Mildred was in a coma for three days.

Millie was very proud of her family. George married Sharon Stevens and they had two children: Bryan (Tessa Baker), and Deborah (Steve Moller). Carolyn married Paul Kriegel and they had two children: Jeffrey (Kelcy West) and Timothy (Nora Luz Emerson). She has eight great-grandchildren: Molly and Charley Wyrsh, Ellie and Lucy Kriegel, Tyler and Jack Lukas and Nico and Leia Kriegel. Her grandchildren and great-grandchildren have many memories of apple jacks, root beer floats and ice cream sundaes with Grandma. She had beautiful sparkling blue eyes and an amazing smile that lit up the room.

George and Mildred loved shiny new cars, dancing and traveling. George retired in 1978 and they were able to travel throughout the U.S. and to dozens of countries. They became "snowbirds" spending winters in Hemet, and later moved to Stanwood in 2004. George died in 2010.

Millie missed him greatly, but often said, "We had a wonderful life and a great family. Life is truly beautiful!"

State takes action to reduce overdose deaths

By SC NEWS STAFF

Any person or organization in Washington state now can purchase naloxone from a pharmacy. Washington State Health Officer Dr. Kathy Lofy signed a state-wide standing order that works like a prescription on Aug. 28 for the medication that can reverse an opioid overdose.

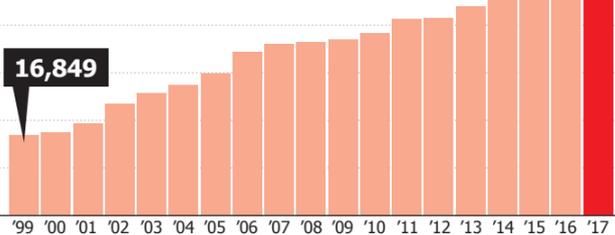

Most commercial health insurance plans cover at least one form of naloxone, but coverage and costs vary.

An overdose of opioid drugs like prescription painkillers, heroin and fentanyl can cause a person's breathing to slow or stop. Naloxone can be given as an injection or a nasal spray to someone experiencing an overdose. It works by temporarily blocking the effects of opioid drugs.

Naloxone is very safe and does not have serious side effects if

More dying from overdoses

The number of overdose deaths in the US has been steadily climbing, according to data from the National Center for Health Statistics accidentally given to someone who is not experiencing an opioid overdose.

"Making it easier to access and distribute this lifesaving medication to people who need it is an important step in addressing the opioid crisis and reducing overdose deaths in our state," said Dr. Lofy. "In 2018, 710 Washington residents died of an opioid overdose."

Snohomish County conducted its third annual count of opioid overdoses during one week in July and reported 27 overdoses in the seven-day period, fewer than in two previous seven-day counts. In 2017, 37 overdoses were counted and in 2018, the number increased to 57 overdoses, according to SnoCo Health.

In nearly three-quarters of the reported 27 overdoses, the person received the opioid overdose reversal drug naloxone. Health reported that the youngest overdose patient was 15; the oldest was 66; and most were people in their 20s and 30s.

The report said the two deaths in the seven days from opioid overdoses in Snohomish County was the same as in 2018. So far this year, SnoCo Health has reported 63 opioid-related deaths, down from 125 in 2018. State-wide, 710 opioid-related deaths were reported in 2018, according to Community Health Plan of Washington.

Health officials are increasingly considering alternative treatment methods to alleviate reliance on opioids, such as exercise, physical therapy, chiropractic, mindfulness, stress reduction and massage.

Acupuncture is one alternative being considered for treatment of chronic pain. CHP announced in September it will cover the cost of up to six acupuncture sessions for adult Medicaid patients with chronic pain.

Meanwhile, the Department of Health encourages anyone who is at risk of experiencing or witnessing an opioid overdose to carry naloxone. People should call ahead to make sure their pharmacy has naloxone available and whether their insurance will pay for it.

Organizations interested in getting naloxone under the standing order need to notify the Health department, which will keep a list of organizations and notify them if there are changes to the order.

Visit doh.wa.gov, search for Naloxone, to read the standing order or the signs of overdose and what to do.

Donors needed at blood drives

Our region's two primary blood supply networks, Bloodworks Northwest and the American Red Cross, are asking everyone who can to make an appointment to give blood or platelets this summer or to volunteer as a blood drive host. All blood types are needed, and donors do not need to know theirs in advance.

Red Cross blood drive: Tuesday, Sept. 24, 1-6 p.m. at North County Fire Station, 8117 267th St. NW, Stanwood. Walk in or pre-register at 800-733-2767. Visit redcross.org.

Bloodworks Northwest blood drive: 10 a.m. to noon and 1-4 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 9, and, for your calendar, Monday, Dec. 30, in the mobile bus at Skagit Regional Clinic, 9631 269th St. NW., Stanwood. Preregistration is required; call 800-398-7888.

How to stop bleeding during an emergency

Two presentations are being offered in the area about emergency aid during a crisis.

- Camano Preparedness Group presents "Stop the Bleeding," to help others during an emergency, 10 a.m. to noon Saturday, Oct. 12, in the Camano Island Library, 848 Sunrise Blvd. Stay for dessert and coffee; free. To inquire contact Rhonda Paulson, 360-387-9923 or rspaulson.rp@gmail.com. For upcoming preparedness programs, visit camanopreparedness-group.org.
- Skagit Regional

Health offers "Stop the Bleed: What Everyone Should Know to Stop Bleeding After an Injury" on Friday, Oct. 4, 2-3 p.m. at Cascade Valley Hospital, 330 S. Stillaguamish Ave., Arlington. Free, but RSVP required: 360-814-2424 or visit srclinics.org.

Officials urge not to smoke or vape

The first confirmed case of a severe lung disease linked with the use of vaping devices was identified last week in King County. The patient was a young adult male, who recovered after a hospital stay in August.

A multi-state investigation regarding an outbreak of severe lung disease associated with using vaping devices/e-cigarette products was launched in August. Symptoms include coughing, shortness of breath and chest pain.

"The symptoms of this patient match what the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention have asked all state and local health jurisdictions to be on the lookout for in regard to the nationwide investigation into this matter," said Washington State Health Officer Kathy Lofy. "This is the first patient identified in Washington associated with this outbreak."

Vaping devices — also known as JUULs, e-cigarettes, e-cigs, vapes, ehookahs, vape pens, mods, tanks, or electronic nicotine delivery systems — can contain nicotine, marijuana, or other substances like flavoring agents and chemicals.

Health advises people that the healthiest option is to not smoke or vape. Nicotine and marijuana can be harmful in any form. And never buy vaping products with additives off the street.

Affordable health screenings offered

Residents living in and around Camano Island can learn about their risk for cardiovascular disease, osteoporosis, diabetes, and other chronic, serious conditions with affordable screenings through Life Line Screening on Thursday, Oct. 3, at the Camano Country Club, 1243 Beach Drive, Camano Island. Screenings are accessible for those with wheelchairs or problems walking. Parking is free.

Screenings can check for these, and other, conditions:

- Plaque buildup in arteries, related to risk for heart disease, stroke and overall vascular health
- HDL and LDL cholesterol levels
- Diabetes risk
- Bone density, as a risk for possible osteoporosis
- Kidney and thyroid function

Consultants can create a package of screenings, based on a participant's age and risk factors. Life Line also offers a membership program. Preregistration is required; call 1-877-237-1287 or visit lifelinescreening.com for prices.

Diabetes prevention classes this month

WSU Extension is offering the Diabetes Prevention Program this fall. Change your lifestyle; improve your health and reduce your chance of getting type 2 diabetes. Learn how small changes can have a big impact on your health. A trained lifestyle coach leads this 22-session series from 5:30-6:30 p.m. Tuesdays, starting Sept. 24, at WSU Extension, 11768 Westar Lane, Suite A, Burlington. To inquire or sign up, call Amber Phillips at 360-428-4270 ext. 224.

Skagit health offers workshops

Skagit Regional Health offers workshops, family birth center tours, health screenings and activities as a public service and generally at no cost; visit srclinics.org. Classes often are held in Mount Vernon, with some in Stanwood, Arlington or Smokey Point. Here are a few:

- Heart healthy cooking demonstration — 2-3:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 26, at Stilly Valley Health Connections, 875 Wesley St. Suite 240, Arlington. Food choices play a critical role in keeping your heart strong and protected. Learn different ideas and techniques on how to incorporate heart healthy foods into their everyday lives. Sample food and take home recipes. Free of charge, but RSVP is required: 360-386-9918 or stillyvalleyhealth.org.
- Technology: Treasure or a Trojan Horse? — 6:30-8:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 3, Skagit Valley Hospital, Mount Vernon. Screen time is embedded in our culture. Learn how it is impacting you and your children physically, socially and emotionally, along with strategies to enhance engagement. Free to ages 13 and older; RSVP requested at 360-814-2424, or watch the presentation from home. Email HealthQuest@skagitregionalhealth.org for Webex log-in information.

- Parent Circle is an evening support meeting for new parents and their babies. 6:30-8:30 p.m. the second and fourth Tuesday each month in the Family Birth Center Waiting Room at Skagit Valley Hospital. Get help with the adjustment to parenthood, perinatal mood disorders and life with a new baby. Call 360-428-2999 to inquire.

Sewing hygiene kits with Days for Girls

Stanwood-Camano Island Days for Girls meets twice a month — 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. the first and third Fridays (Sept. 20 and Oct. 4) at Viking Village, 8910 Viking Way, (use west door) Stanwood — for sewing sessions to create washable hygiene kits for girls and women in need. Bring a sewing machine to help sew or help with non-sewing jobs. One kit lasts a girl about five years and keeps her in school. Lunch is potluck on the third Friday. To inquire, email sci@daysforgirls.org or call 503-887-1820.

Keto group to hold potluck on Camano

KetoOnCamano meets 6-8 p.m. Friday, Sept. 27, in the Camano Island Library, 848 N. Sunrise Blvd. Low carbohydrate diets, such as keto, are popular for promoting a healthy eating lifestyle and for weight loss. Bring questions, suggestions and recipes to exchange. To inquire, contact Kanarick, KetoOnCamano@gmail.com or 425-220-8084 text.

On Sunday, Sept. 29, the group is holding a Keto Potluck, 2-4 p.m. in the South Camano Grange, 2227 S. Camano Drive, Camano Island. Bring a keto dish to share. Organizer Susan Kanarick says anyone interested is welcome. To inquire, call Diana, 425-356-7014.

Bud McDole and Maxine Bires look at orchids in the atrium in September at the Warm Beach Senior Community in Stanwood.

A floral favor

101-year-old donates orchids at Warm Beach

By MARY JENNINGS
For SC News

Warm Beach Senior Community resident Bud McDole has always enjoyed doing what he can to spruce up his retirement community's campus.

When 101-year-old resident Maxine Bires told McDole she had some orchids that she needed help caring for, McDole had just the plan for her delicate plants.

"We have this greenhouse area that is part of an enclosed walkway between buildings," he said. "It has a nice warm climate but was very quiet — almost too quiet."

McDole decided that adding a water feature along with Maxine's orchids would be the perfect way to make the space more inviting.

With help from a group of resident volunteers known as the Facelift Club and several generous donations from residents, McDole was able to realize this vision for the atrium.

"I'm not a particularly fanatical gardener but I do know a thing or two about caring for orchids," McDole said. "Putting Maxine's plants by the new water feature has really made them thrive."

Bires is absolutely thrilled with the results.

"I walk by the fountain and orchids several times a day," she said. "I always pause to admire Bud's work. It's so very soothing and peaceful. Other residents have told me that they feel the same way."

The collection of orchids has grown to include about 30 plants, McDole said. To visit the atrium, contact Warm Beach Senior Community at 360-652-7585.

New online tool helps find Medicare plans

The Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services on Aug. 26 launched a modernized and redesigned Medicare Plan Finder.

For the first time in a decade, the agency's most used tool on Medicare.gov has a new look and features an easy-to-read design to shop and compare Medicare Advantage and Part D plans, including comparing many of the supplemental benefits that Medicare Advantage plans offer. See the tool at cms.gov.

For anyone wanting to learn more about Medicare, several Medicare 101 presentations are offered — one at Stanwood Senior Center on Oct. 14 and one with Skagit Regional Health; see below.

Experts offer help with planning at senior center

Several presentations are planned at the Stanwood Community and Senior Center, 7430 276th St. NW.

• Honoring Choices is the topic from 1:30-3:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 19, as Everett Clinic care experts help seniors complete Advance Directive forms and discuss how to start crucial conversations with their families and medical teams. To register, call 425-317-4654 or visit everettclinic.com/classes.

com/classes.

• Healthy Aging is the focus from 10 a.m. to noon Monday, Oct. 7, when Everett Clinic health coaches bring wellness fun and senior health talks. Seniors can bring Medicare questions and watch as a physical therapist demonstrates fall prevention exercises. Refreshments and door prizes will be offered. Free. RSVP requested at stanwoodseniorcenter.org.

• Eat, Drink and Give! A community impact breakfast fundraiser catered by the center's chef with a short presentation about the LEAP program, is happening 8-9:30 a.m. Friday, Oct. 11. By donation. RSVP requested at stanwoodseniorcenter.org.

• Medicare 101 is offered, 6-7:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 14. Regence Blue Shield of Washington and Patrick Vance with Thomas & Associates of Stanwood will discuss how Medicare works, who is eligible and when and how to understand the benefits you need. The seminar is especially geared for those turning age 65 soon. RSVP requested at stanwoodseniorcenter.org.

More services

• Fresh chef-prepared meals are served at 11:30 a.m. weekdays in the dining room at the center. Cost is $3 for a guest's first meal, $6 for subsequent meals unless guest becomes a member. Visit stanwoodseniorcenter.org to see the menu.

• Get help at the center with health services, medical equipment, DSHS, legal issues, transportation, housing, mental health, Social Security and Medicare. Support groups for Parkinson's, caregivers, brain injury and others meet at the center.

Visit stanwoodseniorcenter.org or call 360-629-7403 to find daily activities, inquire about programs or make appointments.

Gala auction coming to Camano Center

A gala auction, An Evening Around the World, is happening 5:30-9 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 28, at Camano Center, 606 Arrowhead Road on Camano Island. The auction is the center's 13th annual gala fundraiser, with proceeds from the dinner and auction benefiting Center programs and activities throughout the year. Sponsors and auction donors are asked to contact Cindy Hand at auction@camanocenter.org or 360-387-0222.

Hoarding disorder can impede fire safety

Tips for using fire extinguisher

By SC NEWS STAFF

Between 3% and 5% of the population struggles with hoarding, a mental disorder characterized by an individual's inability to discard personal possessions, according to the National Fire Protection Association. The possessions often fill a home and prevent the normal use of the space.

Hoarding increases the risk of fire ignition in a home because personal items may crowd cooking and heating equipment, causing them to catch fire. Excessive accumulation of material in homes poses a significant threat to firefighters responding to emergencies in these homes, as well as to residents and neighbors.

Occupants in these homes are at risk because blocked exits may prevent their escape during a fire or materials could fall on them. In addition, NFPA says hoarding puts first responders at risk due to obstructed exits, falling objects and excessive fire loading, and it impedes their ability to search out and rescue people and pets.

Someone who struggles with hoarding disorder can be helped in several ways:

- When speaking with someone who hoards, match the language of the person and avoid using derogatory terms, such as "junk" or "trash." Focus on safety issues and small steps for addressing those issues instead of immediate, overwhelming cleanup.

- Help the resident make a home safety and escape plan. Stress the importance of clear pathways and exits.
- Contact your local fire department to alert them of your concerns. They may be able to connect you with a hoarding task force for additional help.

In case of fire

On another fire safety topic, portable fire extinguishers are an important part of a home safety plan because they can save lives and property, according to Deputy State Fire Marshal Alyson VanCleave.

Before trying to fight a fire – only small, confined and non-spreading – with an extinguisher, be sure that you know how to use it, that everyone else has left the home, that someone is calling the fire department and that you have a clear escape route.

Remember and practice

these tips on when and how to use a fire extinguisher:

- For home use, select a multi-purpose extinguisher that's light enough to handle but large enough to put out a small fire.

- Check the extinguisher's pressure regularly and make sure it is clean and undamaged.

- Use the acronym "PASS" to remember how to use a fire extinguisher:

P for Pull: Pull the pin on the handle to remove it.

A for Aim: Aim the nozzle of the extinguisher at the base of the flames.

S for Squeeze: Squeeze the top handle downward towards the bottom handle.

S for Sweep: Sweep the nozzle of the fire extinguisher from side to side, aiming at the base of the flames, until the fire is completely out.

Visit the State Fire Marshal's Office online at wsp.wa.gov/state-fire-marshals-office for more information.

After an invocation and speeches, community members gathered for food under a giant American flag waving from atop the department's ladder truck.

"How better to honor those who lost their lives than by having a day where we have a celebration of people who serve in emergency services," Cermak said. "It's a celebration of our country, the spirit of the American people, and our collective hope for a better future."

Camano Island Fire & Rescue personnel honored the firefighters who died Sept. 11, 2001, by placing the numbers "343" outlined in U.S. flags on the hillside below the Freedom Park bell at Terry's Corner and a flag salute ceremony.

"Today we honor those who dedicate their lives to help others; especially the 343 firemen who sacrificed everything in the events of September 11th, 2001," Camano Fire said on Twitter.

Spartans cold in openers

Volleyball, tennis, soccer open seasons with losses

By EVAN CALDWELL
Staff Reporter

Stanwood opened the season with three losses last week — but coaches gleaned a lot from the matches. “We use this preseason to test different combos, formations and matchups — and we get everyone some minutes,” head coach Lori Stunz said. “We are preparing for the long haul.”

The Spartans fell 4-0 Sept. 10 at home to 4A Jackson, lost 3-1 Sept. 12 at Archbishop Murphy and dropped a 3-1 match Saturday at 4A Lake Stevens.

Shelby Lund scored the lone goal for Stanwood on Thursday, and Maya MacDonald tallied the Spartans’ score Saturday.

The Spartans host Shorewood on Tuesday and Mountlake Terrace on Thursday.

“I foresee this group of ladies going into the postseason,” Stunz said. “It’s a great group of seniors who know how to play for each other and play with a desire to win.”

Volleyball

The Spartans opened the season with an exciting five-set battle with Archbishop Murphy.

However, Stanwood fell 3-2 (25-12, 23-25, 25-20, 21-25, 15-13) when the final in a string of rallies fell just short at home Sept 12.

“It was a good test for us going to five sets,” head coach Megan Amundson said. “Playing the opener in front of a home crowd, there were a lot of nerves. I’m proud of how the girls were able to ride that wave and settle into it.”

MG stifles Spartans

Injury-depleted Stanwood squad can’t find momentum

By EVAN CALDWELL
Staff Reporter

It’s hard to win a game when your offense doesn’t get on the field.

The Marysville-Getchell Chargers dominated time of possession in the first half, including more than 11 minutes of the 12-minute second quarter to help build a 17-0 lead at halftime.

“Too many mistakes in the first half,” Stanwood head coach Eric Keizer said.

The Spartans established more balance in the second half, but it proved too late as the Chargers held on for a 37-14 league victory Friday in Stanwood.

It looked like the Spartans had opened the scoring when Isaac Ortega seemingly returned a fumble about 70 yards for a score. However, the referees deemed the Taylor SanNicolas runs for some of his team-high 30 yards on Friday.

Charger ball-carrier down prior to the fumble. Marysville-Getchell then hit on a 25-yard touchdown pass to go up 7-0.

Stanwood opened the second quarter with a punt and — save for a quick series late in the quarter — they never saw the ball again. Though the Spartan defense forced a punt, it was muffed and the Chargers capitalized with another score. Marysville-Getchell then recovered the onside kick and drove into the red zone for a field goal on the back of a balanced attack.

Then after Stanwood’s quick series, the Spartan defense stood tall with a goal-line stand to keep the Chargers out of the end zone as time expired before the break.

“There were a few things that would have been huge momentum swings for us, like the fumble with the inadvertent whistle,” Keizer said. “It changes the game. We saw that last week.”

In addition, the Spartans were without several starters due to injury — and a handful of others left Friday’s game with new injuries.

“As much as we wanted to come back in the second half, we were thin,” Keizer said. “The effort was there, we were just down on personnel.”

Stanwood picks Cruz as soccer coach

He’s also EvCC men’s soccer coach

By EVAN CALDWELL
Staff Reporter

The Spartans have found their new boys soccer coach.

Everett College men’s coach Erik Cruz will take over for Steve Brown, who resigned in May after leading the program for the past six seasons.

“I’m excited,” said Cruz, who previously coached the Stanwood JV team in 2011.

The Marysville-Pilchuck grad said he will lean on an attacking, possession-based style of play.

“We want to attack and try to keep the ball as much as possible,” Cruz said. “It’s going to be hard, but I think if we have people that can pass the ball and are willing to listen, we can make it work.”

Cruz uses a similar system as head coach of the Everett College men’s soccer team, which is in-season this fall — and currently boasts a 6-0-2 record as of Friday.

In high school, Cruz earned a scholarship to Everett College where he was team captain and starting goalkeeper, earning NWAACC All Star team honors. He began his coaching career in 2011 in Stanwood and as an assistant under his former coach, Scott Willisie, helping take the Trojans to the NW-WAACC quarterfinals.

He then served as an assistant coach for the Everett women’s soccer team from 2013-2015 under Geoff Kittle, the winningest coach in EvCC women’s soccer history.

Cruz took the Everett men’s head coach position in 2016, which he’ll continue to do as the Spartan coach.

“We’ll work toward having an organized defense and attacking with numbers and keeping the ball,” the Marysville resident said. “If the opponent can’t get the ball, they get frustrated and make mistakes.”

The Spartans are looking to improve on a 4-11-1 season that was largely played on the road due to construction at Stanwood High School’s stadium.

Tickets for the seventh annual Stanwood High School Athletic Hall of Fame banquet are now available to the public.

This year's event will honor six individual athletes, a coach, a contributor and two teams as well as a special inductee.

In addition, the Lund family will be honored for their long-standing history of participation in and support of athletics in the Stanwood community.

The events starts with a dinner at 6 p.m. Nov. 2 in the SHS gymnasium.

For ticket information, visit the Hall of Fame's Facebook page — facebook.com/StanwoodHallofFame — or at the Stanwood-Camano School District website — Stanwood.wednet.edu — or by calling the Stanwood High athletic office at 360-629-1322.

Cost is $30 per person. Due to limited seating, it is recommended that attendees purchase tickets as soon as possible. Last year's event attracted nearly 325 people. Recommended dress for the evening is semi-formal.

During the banquet, hundreds of photos of athletic teams and individual participants from Stanwood, Lincoln and Twin City high schools will be on display.

The 2019 inductees include individual athletes Lindsey Signer, Becky Fleming, Patty Schrag, Doug Nemo, Chuck Anderson and Karl Wenzel along with coach Nate DuChesne, contributor Franklin Hanson, the 1981-82 SHS girls basketball team and the 1967 Spartan football squad along with special inductee Vern Butts.

FROM B1

Early in the fourth quarter, QB Wyatt Custer rolled right and connected with receiver Isaac Ortega sneaking behind the secondary for a 63-yard touchdown. Custer then connected with Ortega again on a long pass, setting up a 4-yard scoring run for Custer a few plays later.

However, the Spartans — who ran for more than 300 yards last week — finished with just 50 yards rushing on 21 attempts by seven different running backs.

"Getchell did a great job stacking the box," Keizer said. "And with our injuries, we had kids playing positions they hadn't played before, so it was a challenge."

The Spartans host rival Arlington on Friday in the latest edition of the Stilly Cup. Look for a game preview Thursday afternoon at SCnews.com.

Keizer said the team is preparing for Arlington as if none of the injured Spartans will suit up for the Stilly Cup.

"We've embraced it," he said of the lack of roster depth. "We know that's what we got this season. We will cross train our guys at different sports, and if we get some guys back, it'll be a bonus."

327 AMENDED NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING On September 24, 2019 at 10:00 a.m., the Board of Island County Commissioners will hold a public hearing at the Commissioners' Hearing Room, (Room 102B Basement), Island County Annex Bldg., 1 NE 6th Street, Coupeville Washington, to consider whether to accept, modify and accept, or reject the Whidbey Island Conservation District's and Snohomish Conservation District's proposed system of rates and charges on land. The proposed system of rates and charges would be charged to all parcels of land in Island County with certain exemptions as specified in the proposal.

The proposed system of rates and charges would be collected for ten consecutive years beginning in 2020, and would range up to an amount not to exceed five dollars ($5.00) per parcel of land plus an additional amount not to exceed ten cents (.010) per acre per year, with the exception of resource designated forest land which would range up to an amount not to exceed three dollars ($3.00) per forest landowner plus ten percent (10%) of the weighted average of acreage charges imposed on all other land use categories.

The Conservation District programs and activities that would be financed with the proposed system of rates and charges for 2020 would be natural resource planning and technical assistance, low impact development, preservation of sustainable farm and forest lands, and outreach, education and partnerships. A system of rates and charges is not a tax. Conservation districts are not authorized to impose a system of taxes. Instead, in order to accept or modify and accept the conservation districts' proposed system of rates and charges, the Board of County Commissioners must make findings that both the public interest will be served by the imposition of the proposed system of rates and charges, and that the proposed system of rates and charges to be imposed on any land will not exceed the special benefit that the land receives or will receive from the activities of the conservation district. The full text of the proposed rates and charges Package will be provided upon request to the Whidbey Island Conservation District at phone numbers (360) 678-4708 or toll free (888) 678-4922.

Interested persons may appear at the public hearing and give testimony for or against the proposed conservation districts' system of rates and charges. Camano Island residents may participate in the public hearing via video conference if they prefer from the Island County Camano Annex, 121 N East Camano Drive, Camano Island. Persons requiring auxiliary aids/services should call Island County Human Resources at (360) 678-7919, or (360) 321-5111, Ext. 7919, or (360) 629-4522, ext. 7919 (use whichever number is applicable for the area) at least 24 hours prior to the meeting.

SITUATE IN THE COUNTY OF SNOHOMISH, STATE OF WASHINGTON More commonly known as: 1833 191ST STREET S W, LYNNWOOD, WA 98036 Subject to that certain Deed of Trust dated 6/10/2005, and instrument 6/15/2005, under No. 200506150651 records of SNOHOMISH County, Washington, from LISA M BEACH AND KEVIN T BEACH, WIFE AND HUSBAND, as grantor(s), to FIDELITY NATIONAL TITLE INS CO, as original trustee, to secure an obligation in favor of BOEING EMPLOYEES' CREDIT UNION, as original beneficiary. II. No action commenced by the Beneficiary of the Deed of Trust as referenced in RCW 61.21.030(4) is now pending to seek satisfaction of the obligation in any Court by reason of the Borrower's or Grantor's default on the obligation secured by the Deed of Trust/Mortgage. III. The default(s) for which this foreclosure is made is/are as follows: Failure to pay when due the following amounts which are now in arrears: $41,918.15. IV. The sum owing on the obligation secured by the Deed of Trust is: The principal sum of $247,128.44, together with interest as provided in the Note from 4/1/2017 on, and such other costs and fees as are provided by statute. V. The above-described real property will be sold to satisfy the expense of sale and the obligation secured by the Deed of Trust as provided by statute. Said sale will be made without warranty, expressed or implied, regarding title, possession or encumbrances on 10/18/2019. The defaults referred to in Paragraph III must be cured by 10/7/2019 (11 days before the sale date), or by other date as permitted in the Note or Deed of Trust, to cause a discontinuance of the sale. The sale will be discontinued and terminated if at any time before 10/7/2019 (11 days before the sale), or by other date as permitted in the Note or Deed of Trust, the default as set forth in Paragraph III is cured and the Trustee's fees and costs are paid. Payment must be in cash or with cashiers or certified checks from a State or federally chartered bank. The sale may be terminated any time after the 10/7/2019 (11 days before the sale date) and before the sale, by the Borrower or Grantor or the holder of any recorded junior lien or encumbrance by paying the principal and interest, plus costs, fees and advances, if any, made pursuant to the terms of the obligation and/or Deed of Trust, and curing all other defaults. VI. A written Notice of Default was transmitted by the Beneficiary or Trustee to the Borrower(s) and Grantor(s) by both first class and certified mail, proof of which is in the possession of the Trustee; and the Borrower and Grantor were personally served, if applicable, with said

written Notice of Default or the written Notice of Default was posted in a conspicuous place on the real property described in Paragraph I above, and the Trustee has possession of proof of such service or posting. The list of recipients of the Notice of Default is listed within the Notice of Foreclosure provided to the Borrower(s) and Grantor(s). These requirements were completed as of 4/17/2019. VII. The Trustee whose name and address are set forth below will provide in writing to anyone requesting it, a statement of all costs and fees due at any time prior to the sale. VIII. The effect of the sale will be to deprive the Grantor and all those who hold by, through or under the Grantor of all their interest in the above-described property. IX. Anyone having any objections to this sale on any grounds whatsoever will be afforded an opportunity to be heard as to those objections if they bring a lawsuit to restrain the sale pursuant to RCW 61.24.130. Failure to bring such a lawsuit may result in a waiver of any proper grounds for invalidating the Trustee's sale. X. NOTICE TO OCCUPANTS OR TENANTS: The purchaser at the Trustee's Sale is entitled to possession of the property on the 20th day following the sale, as against the Grantor under the deed of trust (the owner) and anyone having an interest junior to the deed of trust, including occupants who are not tenants. After the 20th day following the sale the purchaser has the right to evict occupants who are not tenants by summary proceedings under Chapter 59.12 RCW. For tenant-occupied property, the purchaser shall provide a tenant with written notice in accordance with RCW 61.24.060. THIS NOTICE IS THE FINAL STEP BEFORE THE FORECLOSURE SALE OF YOUR HOME. Shrinking bull-kelp beds harm fish, orcas

BURROWS ISLAND — From the water's surface, bull kelp looks like strands of other-worldly hair swaying in the water. From below, it looks like a palm tree — or dense forest of palm trees.

These underwater forests are important to many marine species and critical to endangered species such as Puget Sound rockfish and Southern Resident orca whales. These forests are also declining throughout the Salish Sea, prompting efforts to save them.

"We know there is cause for concern and we are losing kelp," said Dana Oster, marine program manager for the Northwest Straits Commission.

The Samish Indian Nation is among those working to determine the cause of the decline of bull kelp and helping to plan how to restore these kelp forests.

"We're right out there on the tip of the spear on this and it's really cool to have university researchers working on it, policymakers working on it and tribes working on it," Samish Natural Resources Director Todd Woodard said.

The tribe started its research on bull kelp in Skagit and San Juan counties in 2016. "It was a few years before that that we were hearing from tribal elders that they couldn't find kelp leaves to wrap their salmon in for cooking for ceremonies," Woodard said.

By examining aerial images taken 10 years apart, the tribe has documented a 36% decline in kelp around the San Juan Islands over that span. For the third summer, it is monitoring two Skagit County kelp forests by kayak, and is preparing underwater work in 2020.

The tribe is also active with the Salish Sea International Kelp Alliance and is providing insight for a Puget Sound Kelp Conservation and Recovery Plan. Both efforts are led by the Northwest Straits Commission and involve NOAA Fisheries.

"They've been very involved ... finding data gaps and determining what research we need to do now to preserve and protect kelp," Oster said.

So far, work by the tribe and others including Skagit Marine Resources Committee volunteers and Padilla Bay National Estuarine Research Reserve scientists hasn't shown a major overall loss of bull kelp in Skagit County.

But Oster and Woodard said because significant losses have been documented in other areas of the Salish Sea, having local data available will help identify any sudden decline.

Casey Palmer-McGee, project manager for Samish kelp research, holds a clump of bull kelp Sept. 11 aboard a Samish Tribal research vessel in the sound near Burrows Island.

ONGOING RESEARCH

To further investigate changes in the San Juan Islands, the tribe compared kelp forests shown in high-resolution aerial photos from 2006 and 2016.

Those photos — taken in 2006 by the nonprofit Friends of the San Juan Islands and in 2016 by the tribe — showed a 305-acre loss in kelp forests over those 10 years.

Starting in 2017, the tribe joined ongoing research by kayaking the perimeters of kelp forests and using GPS to document their size.

That work, conducted largely by the seven county marine resources committees, began in 2015.

The Skagit County Marine Resources Committee joined in 2016 and now surveys three sites on the west side of Fidalgo Island — Coffin Rocks at the south end, Ship Harbor at the north end and Biz Point in between.

In an effort to extend the reach of that research in Skagit County, the tribe is monitoring kelp at the western edge of Burrows Island, in a spot southwest of Anacortes' Washington Park across Burrows Pass, and along Reef Point on the southwest tip of Cypress Island.

The tribe selected the kelp forests at Burrows Island and Cypress Island because they're two of the largest not being monitored by the Skagit Marine Resources Committee and are in remote areas volunteers are unlikely to be able to reach.

Oster said tribal staff conduct the Burrows and Cypress island surveys using the method of the marine resources committees and of an organization monitoring kelp along Canada's Gulf Islands.

The timing of the surveys, during summer low tides, is important because the summer months are when kelp, which grows and loses its leaves annually, is at its thickest.

"It's like deciduous trees: They lose their leaves and come back," said Casey Palmer-McGee, project manager for the tribe's kelp research.

When adorned with long leaves during the summer, kelp forests act as a safety zone for fish, a playground for orcas and a perch for birds. Kelp is also food for some species.

The tribe will continue to document the bull kelp along Burrows and Cypress islands, and watch for changes that could be connected to water conditions or indicative of long-term trends.

"We're trying to build a baseline data set to understand fluctuations year to year," Palmer-McGee said.

Plans are underway for the Samish to go further in their research. "We sort of have an idea of where it is and where it was, so the next step is to look at why it's declining," Woodard said.

The tribe would welcome the opportunity to transport and place lab-raised kelp in local waters where kelp forests are lacking.

In addition to conducting research to help fill data gaps and taking part in discussions about how to save bull kelp, the Samish tribe hopes to instill in those involved the cultural significance of the marine plant.

"If you take care of the ocean, she makes sure there's food to take care of your people," Woodard said.

Marblemount mine project called off

By KIMBERLY CAUVEL
Skagit Publishing

The company seeking to establish a rock mine in the Marblemount area has called off the project.

In a Sept. 6 letter to Skagit County Planning and Development Services, Kiewit Infrastructure Co. said it is withdrawing its applications for permits to establish a 79-acre mine to supply large rock for jetty stabilization at the mouth of the Columbia River.

Kiewit's withdrawal of permit applications follows a U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Aug. 30 decision to hire J.E. McAmis, Inc., of Chico, California, to supply the jetty rock for its project planned for 2019-2023.

The withdrawal comes before Skagit County completed its evaluation of the project under the state Environmental Policy Act, or SEPA, including a review of hundreds of public comments and deciding whether to require an environmental impact statement, or EIS, to review potential impacts of the project.

The county has now halted its work on the project and is working with lawyers to figure out the appropriate next steps under SEPA.

"We were collecting data, collecting information and conferring with the tribes," Skagit County Planning and Development Director Hal Hart said of the work leading up to receiving Kiewit's letter Monday. "That is now on hold and we're working with our attorneys (to figure out what's next)."

Some comments the county received about the project came from area residents who sounded the alarm early in 2019 over the proposed mine's proximity to their homes and the Skagit River, and in April formed a nonprofit called Skagit River Alliance.

"Mid-March we saw a little tiny sign on a driveway on Rockport Cascade Road that there was a company called Kiewit that had applied to do this massive mine project with a 100-year permit, and nobody knew anything about that," resident Kathy Young said.

Following that day, she and her husband Michiel Young launched an effort to alert neighbors and those with an interest in protecting the Skagit River. As interest grew, the couple founded the alliance.

Michiel Young said about 150 community members filed into the Marblemount Community Hall one day to discuss concerns about the proposed mine, and about 50 attended the nonprofit's first event — both large turnouts for a rural area such as Marblemount.

"It was a great community effort," Kathy Young said.

Because Kiewit's Sept. 6 letter doesn't cite a reason for withdrawing its permit applications and company representatives did not respond to requests for comment, it's unclear why the company abandoned the project.

The law firm Chmelik Sitkin & Davis of Bellingham, which sent the letter on behalf of Kiewit, also did not respond to requests for comment.

Regardless of the reason, residents who live near the proposed mine site are relieved.

"People say they can finally sleep at night," Skagit River Alliance President Jose Vila said. "Overwhelmingly, people are very relieved and very happy that this thing has gone away."

Kathy Young said that for months she felt opposing Kiewit was like David fighting Goliath.

"Now that they've actually withdrawn their permit applications, a huge weight is off my shoulders," she said. "I can enjoy living here again ... It's beautiful and peaceful and I'm not so worried anymore."

The Youngs and others opposed to the mine were hoping to see Skagit County require an EIS to weigh the potential impacts of the project.

"There's many different reasons why we called for an environmental impact statement, all about the water and the safety, to the wildlife, and to people," Kathy Young said.

Kiewit, on the other hand, made it clear it did not want the county to require an EIS.

"An EIS would provide no additional substantive technical information that Kiewit has not already provided or will provide," the law firm representing Kiewit wrote in a July 3 letter to Skagit County.

The letter asked that the county provide advanced notice of any issues that might require a determination of significance so that the company could clarify its project materials or conduct additional studies to address those issues.

It's unclear what Kiewit will do with the 522 acres it purchased in February to establish the mine.

Though the mine project has been called off, members of the new Skagit River Alliance said they are prepared to continue defending the environment and the residents of the Skagit Valley.

"When we formed the alliance our goal was to protect and preserve the Skagit River and the communities around it, so we're going to continue on with that," Michiel Young said.

Roundup

FROM B1

Stanwood was led by Barrett Anderson (10 kills), Baylor Hezel (24 digs, 4 kills), Grace Henken (3 aces, 32 assists), Madison Morgan (6 aces, 13 kills, 10 digs) and India Lee (5 kills).

On Saturday, the Spartans traveled to Yakima for the 32-team SunDome Volleyball festival.

The young Stanwood squad went winless in pool play and in bracket play.

The Spartans return to Wesco play this week, traveling Tuesday to Shorewood and Thursday to Mountlake Terrace. Stanwood returns home Sept. 24 hosting Meadowdale.

"This is a new, young group, and their getting thrown into a lion's den, but they're ready for the challenge," Amundson said. "They have a lot of fun together. ... We're still trying to find our flow of play our style of play. We're just not quite comfortable yet."

Boys tennis

The Spartans dropped their season opener 5-2 to Lake Stevens on Sept. 12.

Morgan Zill and Cody Vail each secured singles victories for Stanwood, who hosted Mountlake Terrace on Monday and travel to Mount Vernon on Wednesday and Marysville-Getchell on Thursday.

Vail rallied after losing the first set 1-6 to win 7-6 and 10-7 to earn the victory.

"Cody's strength is his consistency — he's frustratingly consistent," head coach Sean Cunningham said. "He's not your prototypical power guy, but he hustles, he's rangy, he's able to get to most balls and he knows how to defuse a guy at the net. He knows how to take apart a players game. He finds ways to win, that's hard to coach."

Shintaro Wilcox, Preston Pierce and Zill will round out the singles players for the Spartans going forward, Cunningham said.

"I think we have three guys (Wilcox, Pierce and Zill) who can play No. 1, and that's really good," he said. "That gives us a shot in every match going forward."

Meanwhile, the doubles teams are mostly new combinations and will take some time to start clicking, Cunningham said.

Singles: Ethan Hoglund def. Shintaro Wilcox (STAN) 6-3, 6-3; Morgan Zill (STAN) def. Luke Stevens 6-4, 6-3; Cody Vail (STAN) def. Micah Bair 1-6, 7-6, 10-7; Max Hein def. Huston Rawls (STAN) 6-2, 6-2
Doubles: Tyler Cochran/Kurt Lippman def. Kenshin Humphrey/Dylan Link (STAN) 6-1, 6-2; Gavin Nelson/Sam Bryant def. Chase Larkin/

Jonah Grierson (STAN) 6-2, 1-6, 0-6; Alex Keeley/Everett de Leon def. Kade Getzinger/Liam Cunningham (STAN) 6-3, 6-0

Cross country

Stanwood boys and girls each opened the season with a fifth-place team finish Wednesday at a seven-team meet in Arlington on a 3,200 meter course.

The girls were led by senior Charlotte Bentz, who finished in 10th place in 13:05. She was followed by Lael Ten Hoopen (23rd, 14:00), Aubree Carr (24th, 14:01), Shaye Martin (44th, 14:45), Rylee Masonholder (52nd, 15:01) and Nadia Rubio (54th, 15:11).

The boys were powered by senior Jason Khoury, who placed 15th in 10:53. He was followed by Owen Palmer (19th, 11:04), Wouter Van Veen (26th, 11:22), Malcolm Childs (31st, 11:45), Nelson Goosman (46th, 12:19) and Matthew Brennan (47th, 12:29).

"Good warm up race for the Sparts," head coach Jordan Sneva said. "Great first races for freshmen Aubree Carr, Lael Ten Hoopen, Malcom Childs and Antonio Sanchez-Racine."
